

MUST BELIEVE IT

When Well-Known Huntingdon People Tell it so Plainly.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Huntingdon the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every backache sufferer, every man, woman or child with any kidney trouble will find profit in the reading.

Mrs. E. D. Bostick, Harrison avenue, Huntingdon, Tenn., says: "For many years I tried different kidney medicines in the hope of curing myself of kidney disease, but nothing helped me. My back ached most of the time and there were pains in my sides. I had dizzy and nervous spells and was caused a great deal of annoyance by the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills were the first remedy that ever relieved me, and after I had used them for a while according to directions, I enjoyed better health than I had for years. I am grateful to this remedy for what it has done for me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for United States.

A Civic Alphabet.

There is a live Civic Improvement Club down in Sheffield, Ala., and it has set a precedent which might be followed to advantage by every civic league in the country. Recently this club sent to every housekeeper in Sheffield a post card on which was printed the following civic alphabet:

A—Aim to make Arbor Day annual "clean-up" day.

B—Banish the tin can district from your city.

C—Clean up back yards and alleys.

D—Destroy rubbish by burning.

E—Educate housewives to demand clean work.

F—Fine every club member who does not work.

G—Give free lectures upon civic improvement.

H—Have campaign against unsightly billboards.

I—Interest city authorities in "clean-up" day.

J—Join all forces for the anti-dirt crusade.

K—Kill sidewalk spitting or it will kill you.

L—Let your slogan be: "Do it for home, sweet home."

M—Make requests of preachers for "clean-up" sermons.

N—Next to godliness is cleanliness.

O—Organize the children into civic leagues.

P—Plant trees and then plant trees, and plant more trees.

Q—Question authorities about city expenditures.

R—Remember to plan parks and playgrounds now.

S—Study city ordinances and work for their enforcement.

T—Try to make the school buildings social centers.

U—Use every effort to arouse citizens.

V—Vanquish the opposition with good nature.

W—Wage increasing war upon all weeds, flies and mosquitoes.

X—Xact obedience to the city sanitary laws.

Y—Your city is YOU; never forget that.

Z—Zeal, courage and patience will "clean up" the city.

Every city in America would do well to follow in Sheffield's footsteps, and it is to be hoped that the good women of the Alabama city will act energetically in accordance with the hints offered in such a striking manner.

Every housekeeper in Huntingdon would do well to cut this alphabet out and place it in a conspicuous place so that the lessons which it teaches may be inculcated by every member of the family. Not only is this good advice for every housekeeper in the city, but those in the country also will find it helpful.

FRAZIER QUITS RACE

Forced Out by Serious Health Conditions.

Senator James B. Frazier has been forced, by the serious condition of his health, to quit the race for the democratic nomination for governor of Tennessee.

Senator Frazier for the last two weeks has been a very sick man, suffering from appendicitis, and should he recover speedily it was found that he would not be able to make such a campaign as he had planned.

The senator's close political and personal friends, last Sunday, decided that it was best for him to quit the race and issued a card to that effect. The last paragraph of the card follows:

"Knowing that his condition is such as to preclude him from giving personal attention and direction to the canvass for the nomination for governor and that he may not sufficiently regain his strength and vitality to render his party the benefit of his sound judgment in counsel, activities in organization, unequalled powers upon the stump after the August primary and knowing, also, from his physicians, that he should be exempt from the annoyance incident to all political struggles in order that he may meet and overcome the ravages of the disease and the ordeal confronting him, we, personal and political friends, associates and neighbors of Senator Frazier, after repeated conferences with the members of his family and the attending physicians, Drs. James H. Atlee and Raymond Wallace, have thought it proper to assume the responsibility of saying to the people of the state that he will no longer be before them as a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor in the August primary.

"In making this statement we can and do say for Senator Frazier that his best wishes and most kindly feelings are extended to every individual democrat in Tennessee, the state which so singularly honored him."

Man Coughs, Breaks Ribs.

After a frightful coughing spell a man in Neenah, Wis., felt terrible pains in his side and his doctor found two ribs had been broken. What agony Dr. King's New Discovery would have saved him. A few teaspoonfuls ends a late cough, while persistent use routs obstinate coughs, expels stubborn colds or heals weak, sore lungs. "I feel sure it's a Godsend to humanity," writes Mrs. Effie Morton, Columbia, Mo., "for I believe I would have consumption today, if I had not used this great remedy." Its guaranteed to satisfy, and you can get a free trial bottle or 50c or $1.00 size at the Patrick Drug Co.

A Tight Wad.

The stingiest man in Sevier county visited our office last week and inquired the price of old papers, and on being informed that they sold at a nickel a bunch or six bunches for a quarter, he howled and brayed and looked through our stock of old papers and selected the four largest bundles, inquired how many rolls twenty cents would buy, and when informed that that amount would purchase four rolls, he wanted to know if we would not announce him as a candidate for matrimony extra. When we told him we would make the announcement for $3, then he asked if we could not tell him where he could find a good-looking woman forty years of age, weighing 120 pounds. We suggested that he subscribe for the Vindicator, and perhaps he could get the name and address of somebody in need of a husband; then he paid us twenty-five cents, picked up his armful of papers, and walked out. —Montgomery Vindicator.

Complex Problem

In a low rocker before the fire sat the doctor's wife darning stockings. Somewhere back in the room sat the doctor, reading his newspaper.

The doctor's wife addressed the fire, but the doctor answered. He knew it was useless to try to read when his wife had something on her mind.

"I wonder what's going to become of us," said the doctor's wife.

"Of whom?" asked the doctor.

"Of us Americans."

"What's the matter now?" questioned the doctor.

"I'm wondering where our American housekeepers are coming from. This afternoon, just as I passed a big office building, three girls came out and walked ahead of me. You should have seen how they were dressed and how they acted."

"Young girls?"

"Of course."

"Well, how were they dressed?"

"You know, it was the usual way—hair puffed out, short skirts, low necks. I don't object to all of that. You don't want them to dress like back numbers. But you should have seen their shoes and stockings."

"Don't I know? You needn't tell me about the astonishing lack of sense that some women display."

"And men, too."

"Oh, well, men, too, I suppose. But you started the conversation about girls."

"Yes, I was going to tell you. Those three girls were dressed as thin as could be. Not one of them had on a wrap, and you know how cold and damp it's been today. But that wasn't the worst. Two had on velvet shoes and the other girl had on satin ones that were all run down at the heels and the satin torn. All of the three had on such short skirts that you could see their thin, flimsy silk stockings. In fact, I thought one had on black and white stockings till I noticed that the white spots were places where the stitches had given out."

"Well, what about all that?"

"I walked back of them to the corner of the next street. They crossed the muddy, dirty pavement, and I know they must have got their feet wet. I watched them for a few minutes and saw them go into a cheap ice cream parlor, and then—"

"And then what?"

"Well, I've been thinking. How can such girls keep house and have homes that give a man a chance to make something of himself?"

"They can't."

"Then what's going to become of us Americans?"

"Ask the university professors. I'm only a doctor."

"Oh, I know what the university professors say. They tell you that our hope lies in the immigrants, the people from the country, and all that. But, ten to one, these were daughters of immigrants or country girls themselves."

"Do you know, madam, that I sat down here to read my newspaper?"

"Yes, I know. But I'm thinking. Anyway, I didn't ask you to answer. You don't have to answer if you don't want to. You see, I don't believe in darning and mending as much as my mother did. We don't have to. Times are different and things don't have to last so long; but girls should be taught to take care of things to a reasonable extent."

The man laid down his newspaper.

"I'm surprised at you," he said.

"Why?"

"Don't you know that the majority of people are abnormal?"

"I really never thought about that. Maybe you're right. People are kind of crazy nowadays, I believe. It's very unattractive to dress warm and comfortable when the weather's cold, and women surely are crazy about their hats and shoes—from their heads to their feet."

"I tell you it's a fact," said the doctor. "I'm not joking. Don't I see it in my business every day?"

"I suppose you do. Doctors ought to understand people, if anybody does. But if we think most persons are abnormal, what are we?"

"Don't know."

"I think we're normal."

"Maybe."

"Then if everybody else is abnormal and we are the only ones who are normal, I suppose all the others think we're crazy."

"Maybe we are."

"Well," said the doctor's wife, slowly, after thinking it over, "you may be, but I know I'm not."—Chicago Daily News.

Dangerous Reptiles.

Contrary to the belief of most people, only two native snakes, rattlesnakes and copperheads, are capable of inflicting serious injury to mankind even if they would, and as the habits of these two are rocky, mountainous woodlands, it is seldom that there is the slightest danger of harm from meeting any of our other native snakes.

Young America.

"You may be president some day, my boy," said the patronizing old gentleman.

"Great Scott!" replied the sadly flippant youth; "you're not trying to pick dark horses that far ahead, are you?"

Young Stratton is the son of the Mr. Stratton who recently conducted a moving picture show here, and if we are not mistaken, the young man was here some during that time.
